

Concerned About PFL Administration?

The Right Platform Can Reduce The Burden

You're not alone. 39% of employers are offering more paid leave than the law requires just to ensure they are compliant with rapidly-changing PFL laws¹.

Scrambling to update your systems and processes for administering PFL? Are you using manual workarounds in the meantime? This is a serious and expensive concern. In addition to supporting laws that have already passed, your system needs to be flexible enough to keep up with the ever-increasing number of state PFL leave laws.

To stay competitive in the industry and remain compliant with changing leave laws, it may be time to consider investing in an absence management platform to reduce the administrative burden on your team.
